

News

Haley & Aldrich earns spot on Boston Business Journal's fastest-growing private companies list-

Burlington, Mass., June 28, 2024 — The Boston Business Journal has named Haley & Aldrich to its 2024 list of the 50 fastest-growing privately held companies in Massachusetts.-

This year marks Haley & Aldrich's first on the "Fast 50" list, which recognizes the private companies based in Massachusetts that recorded the highest revenue growth from 2020 to 2023. Firms were ranked by percentage of revenue growth during that period.-

"As part of Massachusetts' dynamic business environment since our founding, we're proud to have our growth noted by one of the region's top business publications," said President and CEO Shawn Fiore. "Our growth testifies to our staff's relentless hard work and commitment to excellence and — most importantly — always putting our clients and their goals first."-

Haley & Aldrich has more than 35 offices in addition to its corporate headquarters, with more than 900 engineers and scientists located across the United States. Since the company's founding in 1957 in order to provide novel geotechnical services in Boston, it has continued to grow and innovate in areas ranging from emerging contaminant management to seismic and climate change resilience.-

The Boston Business Journal is one of 44 local business journals owned by American City Business Journals. Earlier this year, the publication also recognized Haley & Aldrich as one of the 20 largest engineering firms in Massachusetts and as one of the largest private companies in the state.–

For more information:

Contact our media team. -